

Sheralee Mitchell-MacEwan

From: Nova Scotia Community College (NSCC) <communityreport@nsc.ca>
Sent: Wednesday, December 15, 2021 2:36 PM
To: Sheralee Mitchell-MacEwan
Subject: 2021 NSCC Report to the Community

Trouble viewing this email? Read it online

nsc

2021 NSCC Report to the Community

The Report to the Community is an annual snapshot of stories that demonstrates the tangible and lasting impact that NSCC has on the Province of Nova Scotia.

In this year's report, you'll find stories of individuals who are drawing on the education and support they received at NSCC to shape the workforce, communities and future of our province – one we can all be proud to call home.

Read the full report

Connection and community

With support from NSCC International and EduNova's Study & Stay™ in Nova Scotia program, Amelia Dinh arrived in Springhill ready to build a career as an early childhood educator. Inspired to pay it forward, she became the Student Association President and an International Student Ambassador. As an active alum, she now helps others transition into their new lives and careers in Canada.

Read Amelia's story

Back to nature

NSCC researcher Nathan Crowell is creating a 3D model of the proposed, seaside home for once-captive whales. By gathering data on the seafloor, tidal current velocities and flushing rates, he and the Applied Geomatics Research Group are helping the Whale Sanctuary Project answer complex questions about the future site of North America's first whale sanctuary.

Read Nathan's story

Recipe for success

Chefs Mark Paterson and Krista LeTerte are building a culinary empire in Cape Breton. Each day, the award-winning talents and their team of 30+ create hundreds of thoughtfully curated, expertly prepared apps, entrees and desserts for clients in Sydney and beyond. Across their four lines of business, they're creating jobs and gaining a reputation for mouth-watering flavours and a deep respect for the foodservice sector.

Read Mark and Krista's story

Wi'kipatmu'k Mi'kmawey

Riki Lee Christmas is the talented artist behind a new program launched at NSCC libraries during Mi'kmaq History Month. The spines of all Mi'kmaw and other first-voice, Indigenous books have been affixed with a label featuring Riki Lee's deeply-symbolic design. The change makes research easier and encourages reconciliation by celebrating Indigenous authors and content.

Read Riki Lee's story

A life's purpose

At the age of 6, Vanity Thompson knew she wanted to become a nurse. While her life took a different path than expected, she discovered her dream was within reach when she enrolled in the African Canadian Transition Program. Today, Vanity is a Licensed Practical Nurse in the QEII's COVID-19 Unit, and one of the hundreds of frontline workers battling the pandemic to keep Nova Scotians safe.

Read Vanity's story

Looking back. Thinking forward.

While the Nova Scotia Community College we know today was officially created in 1996, our history can be traced back well beyond 25 years to 1872, when Nova Scotia's first technical and vocational school opened.

Read our story

View our consolidated financial statements and find additional features on employees, students and grads online at nsc.ca/communityreport

On behalf of NSCC and our Board of Governors, we thank you for your ongoing support.

Sincerely,

Don Bureaux
President, NSCC

Judith Ferguson
Chair, NSCC Board of Governors

PS: Join us in celebrating 25 years of education, excellence and our rich history, which extends well beyond at nsc.ca/25anniversary

Contact us: communityreport@nsc.ca | 1-866-679-6722

NSCC | 5685 Leeds Street | PO Box 1153 | Halifax, Nova Scotia | B3J 2X1 Canada

Verified virus free by MessageLabs

Nova Scotia Community College
5685 Leeds Street
Halifax Nova Scotia B3J 2X1

This email is intended for info@easthants.ca.
Update your preferences or Unsubscribe